FORWARD

This does not purport to be a complete genealogy of the McDuffie family. It is just a beginning. An analysis has been made of records kept by Ellie L. Traylor and Queenie McDuffie as well as bible, census, tombstone and courthouse records. I have personally made two visits to the courthouse at Raymond, Hinds County, Miss. It was there that the Clerk was kind enough to go down into the basement where some of the oldest administration records were kept and to our delight found many McDuffie and Cabeen records which were out of place and in a box with a family of another name.

A trip was made by a genealogist to the cemetery at Edwards who copied the inscriptions from the tombstones of Flora McDonald McDuffie and her daughter Nancy McDuffie Morrison.

Flora McDonald McDuffie was born 1745 in the Isle of Skye Scotland, died 1833, in Hinds County, Mississippi. She was the wife of John McDuffie, as the inscription verifies. This couple, banished from the Isle of Skye Scotland because their clans had remained loyal to Prince Charles, came to America in about 1760 where they found a home in America in one of the Scotland counties of North Carolina, situated on Cape Fear River. They landed at Charlestown, South Carolina but moved on up into North Carolina and settled among other Scottish Highlanders.

The courage of Flora McDonald McDuffie should be an inspiration to all of her descendants. Leaving her beloved Scotland in 1760, not only did she cross the ocean in search of a new home, but in about 1815, as a widow, she came with her children to Greene County, Mississippi. In 1832 at the age of eighty-seven she moved again into another wilderness where she died the following year and is probably the first person buried in the Edwards Cemetery. Prior to that time Hinds County was Indian territory. Truly her descendants should be inspired by her courage, for none survived such hardship except those with strong endurance, simple habits, strong hearts and ^{perennial} perennial hopefulness.

This is another of the branches of the Clan Alpine. Of them Mrs. Skene writes: "The MacDuffies or MacPhees are the most ancient inhabitants of Colonsay, and their genealogy which is preserved in the manuscripts of 1450 evinces their connection by descent with the MacGregors and MacKinnons. Of their early history nothing is known, and the only notice regarding their chiefs at that period is one which strongly confirms the genealogy contained in the manuscript.

Donald MacDuffie is witness to a charter by John, Earl of Ross, and Lord of the Isles, dated at the Earl's castle of Dingwall, 12th April 1463.

Macfie of Colonsay kept the records of the Isles in the time of the old Lords of the Isles.

After the forfeiture of the Lord of the Isles the Macfies followed the MacDonalds of Isley (Reference - Clans and Regiments of Scottish Highland by Adams p. 75.)

From Clans and Tartans of Scotland by Robert Bain - page 206: "When the Macfies (McDuffie) were dispossessed, some of them followed the McDonalds and others settled in the Cameron Country of Lochaber and supported that Clan McDonald at the battle of Culloden."

The first of the most important things to be done is to get the land cleared of the brush and the trees which are growing on it. This will be done by cutting down the trees and burning them. The brush will be cut down and burned. The land will then be plowed and sown with wheat. The wheat will be harvested in the fall and the grain will be sold. The money from the sale of the grain will be used to pay the expenses of the farm. The farmer will then have a profit. The farmer will then use the profit to buy more land and more tools. The farmer will then be able to grow more wheat and to sell it for a profit. The farmer will then be able to live on the land and to support his family. The farmer will then be able to live a better life. The farmer will then be able to live a better life.

Students Reference Book Vol. I A-L -- From sketch of Charles Edward, son of James Stuart at Rome December 31, 1720.

"On the breaking out of war between France and England in 1744 the French furnished Charles with a powerful fleet and an army with which to secure the throne of the Stuarts. This expedition was driven back by storms. The French refused to let him try again. He managed, however, to collect enough funds and vessels to go to Scotland, where an Army of Highlanders slowly gathered about him.

After winning the battle of Falkirk, January 17, 1746, his Highland Chief forced him again to retreat to the Highland where the disastrous defeat of Culloden ruined his cause. He might have won this battle too, had not the McDonald Clan on the left wing refused to charge, sulking because they had always had the honor of holding the right wing."

After the defeat of Prince Charles Edward Stuart at Culloden in 1746, Flora McDonald conducted Prince Charles who was disguised as "Betty Burke" the Irish Washerwoman Ormiclade to Portree in the Isle of Skye where the Prince was committed to the care of McDonald of Kingsburg.

Flora McDonald was arrested by the Government for her part in this affair and held in captivity for about a year, during which time she received a great deal of attention and honor.

In 1750 she married the son of McDonald of Kingsburg and became the mother of several children.

They moved to North Carolina in 1774 and when the Revolutionary War broke out her husband was commissioned a Brigadier General in the British Army. Her five sons were also British Officers.

Flora returned to Scotland in 1779 with her youngest daughter. Two years later she was joined by her husband where they lived until her death at Kingsburg, March 5, 1790.

She was buried at Kilmurr in one of the sheets on the bed in which Prince Charles Edward slept the night he passed at Kingsburg.

Dr. Johnson who was entertained by Flora in 1773 describes her as: "A woman of gentle manners and elegant presence." He also says that "Her

1. The first part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the success of any business and for the protection of the interests of all parties involved. The author argues that without accurate records, it is impossible to make informed decisions or to identify areas for improvement.

2. The second part of the paper describes the various methods used to collect and analyze data. It outlines the steps involved in designing a study, selecting a sample, and collecting data. The author also discusses the importance of ensuring the reliability and validity of the data collected.

3. The third part of the paper presents the results of the study. It shows that there is a significant correlation between the accuracy of records and the success of the business. The author also identifies some of the factors that can lead to inaccurate records, such as poor training or inadequate resources.

4. The fourth part of the paper discusses the implications of the findings. It suggests that businesses should invest in training and resources to ensure that their records are accurate. The author also suggests that governments should consider implementing regulations to ensure that businesses maintain accurate records.

5. The fifth part of the paper concludes the study. It summarizes the main findings and suggests areas for further research. The author also expresses his appreciation to the participants and the funding agency.

name will be mentioned in history, and if courage and fidelity are virtues mentioned with honor."

After the breaking up of the Clans of Scotland the following oath was taken by the Scottish people. This might explain why the family of Flora McDonald served in the British Army or did not take sides.

"I swear as I shall answer at the great day of judgment; I have not and shall not have in my possession any guns, and sword or arms whatsoever and will never wear tartan, plaid, or any part of the Highland Garb. If I do so may I be accused in my undertakings, family and property. May I never see my wife nor children, nor father, mother or other relation, may I be killed in battle as a fugitive coward, and lie without Christian burial in a foreign land, far from the grave of my forefathers and kindred. May all of this come upon me if I break this oath."

NOTE: This oath was repealed in 1872 through the influence of Sir Walter Scott's novel in 1872.

GEORGE W. McDUFFIE.

The McDuffies are of Scotch ancestry, the first member of the family in this country being one John McDuffie, who left his native land of Scotland to settle in the new world, taking up his abode in South Carolina prior to the Revolutionary war. He was married to Miss Flora McDonald also of Scotland, and their son, Norman became the father of the subject of this sketch.

Norman was born in South Carolina, but removed to Greene County, Mississippi when that state was a territory. He took up his residence on the Chickasawhay River, on which he located a ferry, which was long known as McDuffie's ferry, at what is now the town of Leaksville. He died in Green County, Mississippi, when the subject of this sketch was a small boy. The latter was born in Greene County March 12, 1818, the fourth of eight children, and remained with his mother (whose maiden name was Mary Armstrong) until he attained his tenth year, at which time he was moved to Hinds County, Mississippi, where his schooldays were spent, but in 1853 he settled on the farm which he now occupies, at which time he purchased 680 acres

NOTE: South Carolina given by Historian as place of birth of Norman McDuffie is an error. He was born in North Carolina. See 1880 Census report of George McDuffie, Morehouse Parish, Louisiana.

The following McDuffie records were found in possession of May Gardner, descendant of John and Flora McDonald McDuffie, who died May 1951. These are in possession now of Queenie McDuffie, Oak Ridge, Louisiana.

Queenie McDuffie states that she believes May Gardner copied the following record from records which she, Queenie McDuffie, had in her possession as late as 1931, but at this time she cannot locate them. These were records made from a brief history and genealogy of the family as told by George W. McDuffie in 1896 to his granddaughter, Ellie L. Traylor. See certified copy following:

He told me this July 15, 1896 and I made a written record of these facts at that time. I now have them recorded on a family chart in my possession.

NOTE: The above McInnis records were sent by Julius H. Grimes, 313 Dean Court Street, Gadsden, Alabama, whose great-grandmother was Christine Catherine McInnis.

BY /s/ Rosalie F. Biggs, D. D.

Children of Norman McDuffie born between 1770 - 80 in Moore County, North Carolina and Mary Armstrong McDuffie:

3. (1) Nancy McDuffie married Daniel Morrison her first cousin - son of Nancy McDuffie and Alexander Morrison. Daniel Morrison was appointed Guardian for his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, John Quincy Adams McDuffie and Sibley McDuffie, who were minors when Norman died by 1834.
4. (1) Malcom Morrison, son of Daniel and Nancy McDuffie Morrison lived at Utica, Mississippi in 1896.
3. (2) Murdock McDuffie (died young)
3. (3) Flora McDuffie (died young)

3. (4) George W. McDuffie, born 1818, married Caroline Cabeen, died in Oak Ridge, Louisiana. (See later)
3. (5) Sibley (Sibly) McDuffie married Bynum Gardner. (See later)
3. (6) Samuel McDuffie, killed by caving sand bank.
3. (7) John Quincy Adams McDuffie, born 1825, died in Oak Ridge, Louisiana. (See later).

GEORGE WASHINGTON McDUFFIE

3. (4) GEORGE WASHINGTON McDUFFIE, son of Norman and Mary Armstrong McDuffie was born March 12, 1818, Greene County, Mississippi, died May 5, 1905, Oak Ridge, Louisiana. Married Caroline E. Cabeen born December 2, 1824, East Feliciana Parish, Louisiana, died February 19, 1886, Oak Ridge, Louisiana, married December 15, 1841.

George W. McDuffie moved to Hinds County, Mississippi with his mother, Mary Armstrong McDuffie, after the death of his father about 1834. At that time he had many relatives there including his Grandmother, Flora McDonald McDuffie, who is buried there. The Hinds County records show that Dr. Angus Morrison, son of his oldest aunt, Nancy McDuffie Morrison, was appointed his guardian. (See Hinds County Court Records under Norman McDuffie minor heirs.)

Tradition says that George McDuffie spent a great deal of time making friends with the Indians when a young boy and later he did much in promoting a friendly relationship between the Indians and the white settlers of that region.

In a few years after his marriage to Caroline Cabeen (See Cabeen D. A. R. Ancestral Chart of Maude Myers Files) he moved to Morehouse Parish, Louisiana about 1853, where he reared a large family of his own and helped rear the nephews, Roderick, George and Sam McDuffie, sons of his brother John who had died at the age of thirty-two. His wife's sister, Elizabeth, and her husband died before 1860 so he and Caroline McDuffie reared their children, Ada and Gray Gardner. Thus accounting for such a feeling of close relationship among the three families.

Bartlett Gardner's parents died by 1860. At that time he was sixteen years old and living with George W. McDuffie, his uncle.

Bartlett Gardner was the son of Sibley McDuffie and Bynum Gardner. After the death of Sibley McDuffie, Bynum Gardner married Elizabeth, the sister of Caroline Cabeen McDuffie.

The 1860 Census Records of George McDuffie, Morehouse Parish, give proof that he was a wealthy man before the War Between the States. He owned many slaves, carriages, and a governess was hired for his children.

He served as a Captain of the Home Guards during the Civil War. In 1864 when it seemed apparent that slaves would be freed in Louisiana, he took his slaves to Denton County, Texas as it was rumored that the negroes would not be set free there. After the end of the war he and his family returned to "Shady Bank", their home on Gum Ridge, where he and Caroline Cabeen McDuffie lived the remainder of their lives.

2. In the second part of the paper, the problem of the uniqueness of the solution of the system (1) and (2) is considered. It is shown that the system has a unique solution if the conditions (7) and (8) are satisfied.

3. In the third part of the paper, the problem of the stability of the solution of the system (1) and (2) is considered. It is shown that the solution is stable if the conditions (9) and (10) are satisfied.

4. In the fourth part of the paper, the problem of the asymptotic stability of the solution of the system (1) and (2) is considered. It is shown that the solution is asymptotically stable if the conditions (11) and (12) are satisfied.

5. In the fifth part of the paper, the problem of the boundedness of the solution of the system (1) and (2) is considered. It is shown that the solution is bounded if the conditions (13) and (14) are satisfied.

6. In the sixth part of the paper, the problem of the periodicity of the solution of the system (1) and (2) is considered. It is shown that the solution is periodic if the conditions (15) and (16) are satisfied.

7. In the seventh part of the paper, the problem of the ergodicity of the solution of the system (1) and (2) is considered. It is shown that the solution is ergodic if the conditions (17) and (18) are satisfied.

8. In the eighth part of the paper, the problem of the mixing of the solution of the system (1) and (2) is considered. It is shown that the solution is mixing if the conditions (19) and (20) are satisfied.

9. In the ninth part of the paper, the problem of the entropy of the solution of the system (1) and (2) is considered. It is shown that the entropy of the solution is positive if the conditions (21) and (22) are satisfied.

10. In the tenth part of the paper, the problem of the information content of the solution of the system (1) and (2) is considered. It is shown that the information content of the solution is finite if the conditions (23) and (24) are satisfied.

Samuel McDuffie's early life was spent in the settlement of "Gum Ridge" near the present town of Oak Ridge. Samuel remembered the Civil War as a little boy eight years old. His father was dead and his mother, a widow, lived with her three boys near Captain George W. McDuffie, a brother of her deceased husband. It is said that Captain McDuffie made very little difference between his own children and the children of John's.

After the Civil War Colonel John Huffman of Collins County, Texas, who had married Irene McDuffie, daughter of Captain McDuffie, moved to Oak Ridge and established his home known as "Rebels Retreat". Sam McDuffie lived with him and his cousin, Irene.

In about 1876 Kate McInteer, a neice of the Colonel's, daughter of Susan Huffman his sister, came to live with her uncle. Soon after that 1877, Sam McDuffie and Kate McInteer married. See D. A. R. Ancestral Chart of Queenie McDuffie.

The first plantation Sam McDuffie purchased was "Como". Later he bought "Sunnyside Plantation" and built a large new home in 1908, where they lived until their death.

Sam McDuffie was one of the most successful planters and business men in Morehouse Parish. For many years he was a partner with J. W. Brodnax. He was a charter member and Director of the Bank of Oak Ridge. He served as a trustee in the Oak Ridge Methodist Church for over forty years and was one of it's most loyal and devout members.

The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem. It is shown that the problem is equivalent to a problem in the theory of differential equations.

It is then shown that the problem can be reduced to a problem in the theory of integral equations. This is done by using the method of successive approximations. The result is that the problem is equivalent to a problem in the theory of integral equations.

The next part of the paper is devoted to a detailed discussion of the problem. It is shown that the problem can be reduced to a problem in the theory of integral equations. This is done by using the method of successive approximations. The result is that the problem is equivalent to a problem in the theory of integral equations.

The final part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the results. It is shown that the problem can be reduced to a problem in the theory of integral equations. This is done by using the method of successive approximations. The result is that the problem is equivalent to a problem in the theory of integral equations.
